Date: February 10, 2021

Mr. Himanshu Kumar Singh,
Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate
District and Sessions Court,
Meerut.

Greetings from Shobhit deemed to be University, Meerut.

We appreciate your interest in pursuing a master's course in Law (LL.M.). The modern legal landscape is increasingly evolving and studying an LL.M. will put you at the forefront of current legal developments. Going back to school for higher study will mean conducting legal research – skill which judicial officers in the district judiciary need to revisit on an ongoing basis to get equipped for better analysis and presenting findings in an improved way.

I have the honour to inform that School of Law and Constitutional Studies, Shobhit Deemed to be University, Meerut under the aegis of Centre of Post Graduate Legal Studies (SLCS) has started LL.M one year programme and offering specialization in Constitutional and Administrative Law; Corporate and Commercial Law & Criminal and Security Law. The admission is open for the current academic session. The SLCS, due to pandemic, has opted for blended learning and the lectures will be delivered online/in-person (physical) on all holidays including Saturdays and Sundays. We at SLCS understand that Court hours and judicial working days are important and judicial officers have to make use of the working days for to lessen the suffering of the litigants. Therefore, SLCS has decided to customise the online classes for the judicial officers on working days (including those Saturdays and Sundays when they are required to perform some special duty in the Court) from 5:30pm to 9.30 pm.

Joining such a customized course with physical/online classes on weekends/holidays would not negatively affect duties of the judicial officers in and off the Court/office.

With regards,

Authorized Signatory
