WHY LL.M. IN DISPUTE RESOLUTION

Blended Learning Program

The development of a legal system and its processes is a sine qua non for the sustainable growth of industry, society, and public policy. One of the core tenets of any such evolved legal system is dispute resolution. Conventionally, the practice of litigation before courts of law involved inflexible proceedings and lengthy courtroom exchanges, often to the detriment of the parties to the dispute. This paved the way for alternate forms of dispute resolution such as arbitration, negotiation, and mediation, which served as quicker and more flexible proceedings out of court. It also allowed parties to retain flexibility and autonomy.

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) mechanisms such as arbitration and negotiation can be traced back to 3000 years. However, the last 100 years have witnessed a boom in the demand for more efficient, cost-effective, and decisive resolution of disputes. The legal community of the modern world has developed a variety of methods to meet the commercial needs of the 21st century. Consequently, the widespread use of alternative dispute resolution mechanisms can be observed in both domestic and international business. Legal professionals across industries are expected to possess a nuanced understanding of not just traditional private law, but also processes such as commercial mediation, domestic and international arbitration, investor-state dispute resolution, and enforcement of settlements and arbitral awards through domestic courts.

The LL.M. in Dispute Resolution provides students with a holistic understanding of both domestic and international dispute settlement processes. It equips legal practitioners with not just a theoretical understanding of the law, structure, and policy of alternative dispute settlement, but also the best practices essential for lawyers who are looking to expand their skill set in the field of Dispute Resolution, including ADR.

The sharp increase in both the number of governmental and private institutions offering ADR services as well as the number of disputes being resolved through ADR mechanisms has resulted in this field of law being in constant state of flux. There are frequent revisions to conventions and treaties governing international dispute resolution as well as domestic laws governing arbitration and mediation processes with India alone amending its Arbitration and Conciliation Act of 1996 thrice since 2015.

This dynamic nature of the law combined with technological advancements and changing dimensions of global commerce requires legal practitioners to constantly adapt and remain updated with a complex network of laws, rules, regulations, and industry standards. It is in this backdrop that the LL.M. in Dispute Resolution, delivered through the blended learning format, has been designed as the perfect addition to any legal practitioner's repertoire.

WELCOME TO LL.M. IN DISPUTE RESOLUTION WITH JGLS

Blended Learning Program

JGLS, the flagship school of O.P. Jindal Global University, is ranked as the No. 1 Law School in India by the QS World University Rankings 2022 and has been ranked among the top 150 law schools in the world. JGU has also been recognized as an Institution of Eminence by the Government of India. We, at JGLS, are excited to partner with upGrad to offer this unique program – LL.M. in Dispute Resolution through the blended learning/online classes mode.

This program will bring the industry and academic experience of JGLS faculty members to the students enrolled in the program who will not only benefit from the strength of the foundational modules and courses but also from the critical approaches followed in analysing complex dispute settlement processes. A comprehensive examination of domestic and international arbitration, investor-state dispute resolution, mediation, and allied processes, through interdisciplinary and cross-jurisdictional perspectives will enable students to become better dispute settlement practitioners.

Students enrolled in the program will take a deep dive into the varied stages of dispute resolution- from the initiation of a dispute until the enforcement of successful settlements and awards. The design of the program is contiguous, with one course segueing into the next to provide an uninterrupted learning process. Therefore, each course plays a crucial role towards the goal of preparing, managing, and delivering dispute settlement solutions in practice.

Students will have the opportunity to understand the full range of dispute settlement laws and procedures. The topics shall range from the theory and evolution of international law and ethical issues in ADR to practical elements of drafting effective dispute resolution clauses and planning dispute strategies in complex commercial cases.

JGLS's strong placement network, industry presence, and the credibility of our LL.M. degree and faculty members will also position students to take their goal of becoming a dispute resolution lawyer to the next level.

India's  LAW

As businesses and global commerce evolve to meet the demands of the 21st century, it is imperative that legal professionals stay abreast with the changing contours of dispute resolution and be fully prepared to deliver effective legal solutions. The LL.M. in Dispute Resolution (Blended Learning Program) by Jindal Global Law School (JGLS) meets this requirement and students will graduate with a detailed understanding of disputes and conflicts and the tools necessary to resolve such disputes.

Through the LL.M. program, JGLS, in association with upGrad, will mould students into more complete lawyers with broader perspectives and new skill sets, who fulfil industry expectations."

“

JGLS program is full of diversity and inclusiveness. As an international student, I have received a lot of help from my teachers, faculty members and batchmates. The most amazing thing about the program is that I came across many famous experts and listened to their sessions at close range. This experience has broadened my horizon. During the sessions professors not only taught law, but also taught legal research, the use of advanced software, and writing skills. They also provide career counseling at various stages. These have benefited me for life. ”

“

The LL.M. program in Corporate and Financial Law and Policy with JGLS has been an enriching experience. The course is a perfect blend of academic discourses and practical exposure. The most distinctive feature of this course is its quality of faculty, with a majority of the faculty members having been practitioners and experts in their respective fields. This is showcased by the course structure and the quality of teaching, which ultimately prepares one for the real world. I recommend all prospective students who want to sharpen their academic skills while having a hold in corporate practice, to invest in the LL.M. program with JGLS. ”

Prateek Gupta

India, LL.M.

2016-17

“

My experience for completing my LL.M. in Corporate Law with JGLS came with a lot of twists and turns, as I came from a traditional State University that taught only the theoretical aspect of the law. But during my time with JGLS, the most amazing thing was to learn about the practical aspects through assignments, the same assignments which are done by associates at a law firm. This experience gave a great boost to my career. The professors here are very helpful and taught us through various examples. ”

Purbita Mitra

India, LL.M.

2016-17

Pursuing the LL.M. program with JGLS has been a thoroughly enriching experience for me, which has equipped me with a comprehensive understanding of Corporate and Finance laws from a global perspective. The well-structured curriculum focusing both on theoretical and analytical aspects of the subjects along with practical case studies, interactive sessions, and establishing insightful discussions with the distinguished teaching faculty was fundamental in ensuring my excellent academic performance. The program has not only built confidence in me for dealing with complex legal issues but also has opened up many career avenues before me. ”
