MRI: BRAIN

IMAGING SEQUENCES (NCMR)

AXIAL : DIFF, T1, TIRM & TSE T2 Wis. ; SAGITTAL : T2 Wis.; CORONAL : TIRM Wis.

Thinning of white matter is seen in both cerebral hemispheres with T2 / TIRM hyperintensity predominantly periventricular region, globus pallidus.

Rest of the cerebral hemispheres shows normal MR morphology, signal intensity and gray - white matter differentiation. The basal nuclei, thalami and corpus callosum are showing normal signal intensity pattern. Both lateral ventricles and third ventricle are normal in size shape and outline. Septum pellucidum and falx cerebri are in midline. No mass effect or midline shift is seen.

Brain stem and cerebellar hemispheres are showing normal morphology, signal intensity and outline. Fourth ventricle is normal in size and midline in position.

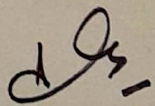

Major intracranial dural venous sinuses are showing normal outline and flow void.

Sella, supra-sellar and para-sellar structures are normally visualized.

IMPRESSION:

Findings are suggestive of periventricular leukomalacia.

Clinical correlation is necessary.
